FJORDS, MOUNTAINS & WATERFALLS OF NORWAY

As summer begins to bloom, Norway's fjords are at their most striking, with long days and vivid scenery inviting you to take it all in. Sailing Nordfjord brings you past Hornelen, Europe's highest sea cliff, while Lustrafjord – an arm of mighty Sognefjord – leads to Skjolden, the country's innermost fjord port. Scenic diversions take you along Lysefjord, only accessible to smaller ships and home to the famous Pulpit Rock, and Åkrafjord to capture views of Langfoss Waterfall. Ashore, adventure calls with RIB rides and kayaking on glassy waters, hikes to the thundering Feigefoss Waterfall, and the chance to journey along the Sognefjellet mountain road, Northern Europe's highest pass, where sweeping views stretch across peaks and valleys.
